"WORST OVER," HARDING TELLS FARMERS IN KANSAS WHEAT BELT; EXPECTS GRADUAL IMPROVEMENT

HUTCHINSON, Kansas, June 23.—"Agriculture is through the worst depression" and "now can reasonably expect gradual improvement," declared President Harding today in one of the most important addresses of his tour, speaking before a tremendous farm audience here in the greatest wheat field of the country.

Launching fervently into his heralded "message to the farmer," the President said: "I am proud to be able to come to you today and tell you of what has been done for agriculture suffering from the concoctions of post war deflation."

The theme of Mr. Harding's address here, which was followed with the greatest attention and interest, was a comprehensive recital of the steps taken by the Congress under his administration to relieve the burden of the farmer. He announced no new agricultural measures to be recommended to the next Congress.

"Y" BUDGET CAMPAIGN OPENS MONDAY; FIFTY MEN GOING OUT TO ROUND UP THE MONEY NEEDED TO MAINTAIN Y. M. C. A.

Amount Needed Deficit
of Last Year When No
Request Was Made and
This Year's Budget.

ALL SHOULD HELP

Monday morning an army of fifty or more supporters of the Clearfield Y. M. C. A. will start out on an every man canvass of the city in an effort to raise Eighty-Five Hundred Dollars for that institution. This sum is needed to wipe out the deficit incurred during the past year and furnish the Association with the necessary funds to carry on the work this year as well as add to the general all around efficiency of the work.

The Progress believes that the full sum will be raised. It is a real need as anyone in touch with such things well knows. Such institutions, whether they operate under "Y" charter or not, are never entirely self-supporting. It is up to the citizens, working together, to furnish the funds, and the task is not a large one for a community the size of this city. Many there are who will give large sums. We know this because a large number of men have already said that their subscriptions would run into the hundreds. But there is no necessity for a few carrying the load. All should do something and we believe all will for that is characteristic of Clearfield and its people.

The budget as made out by the thirty one directors of the institution is conservative and business like. There is no effort being made to get all that the traffic will stand but rather it has been formed on a basis of real needs. The directors are a progressive lot of men, full of confidence in their city and having the interests of the youth of the city at heart to the extent that they are willing to assume big debts for their sake. The wonderful swimming pool in the building and the other improvements were put in on faith in Clearfield.

The campaign is in able hands. Big hearted "Bill" Sheeder is at the head of it and Bill never fell down on a job yet. Promptly at nine o'clock the campaign begins on Monday and solicitors will report at the "Y" at that hour. Fifty men will go out and mark our prediction—the end of the first day will see over half the amount raised.

RESTAURANT MAN IS HEAD OF ALL ROTARY CLUBS IN THE WORLD

St. Louis, June 22.—Rectitude and duty are the elements necessary for good citizenship, Arthur Meaghan, former premier of Canada, and at present a member of the Canadian parliament asserted here today in an address before the fourteenth annual convention of Rotary International.

Guy Gunaker of Philadelphia, was elected president and Rufus Chapin, of Chicago, was re-elected treasurer. They were without opposition as were John Bain Taylor, of London, and John Gibson of Toronto, Ont. for directors of Great Britain and Ireland, and for Canada, respectively.

Everett W. Hill, Oklahoma City, Benjamin C. Brown, New Orleans, La.; A. W. Smith, Jr., Pittsburgh, Pa.; Frank Hatfield, Evansville, Ind., and Frank Lamb, Houliam, Wash., were elected directors for the United States.

Charles Rhodes, of Auckland, N. Z., was elected eighth director who is chosen after the British, Canadian and five American directors have been elected.

Mr. Gunaker is a restaurateur. He is author of a code of ethics, covering every relation of the restaurant proprietor, which has been adopted by the National Restaurant Association.

WELL KNOWN WOOD- LAND WOMAN DIES

Mrs. Elizabeth J. Peters, of Woodland died Friday evening. Funeral from Archie Deylings residence, Monday at 10:30. Obituary later.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE KIDDIES; PUBLIC PLAYGROUNDS BROUGHT INTO BEING BY COMMUNITY SERVICE OPEN UP MONDAY

Monday morning will see the opening of the playgrounds. It is the intention of all who have anything to do with the program to build it broader and better than the fine start made last season. The schedule of volunteer help is shaping up very well for it is much more comprehensive after last summer's experience to all what can be done and is needed. Every last thing will not quite be in perfect readiness but the work will go on for some time after the regular opening. Not only should the work of putting things in order come on the men who are interested but on the boys and girls who are reaping the advantage.

The various officers of the playground organization are as follows: Supervisors: First Ward, Miss Laura John; Second Ward, Miss Barbara Leighton; Third Ward, Miss Evelyn Smith; Fourth Ward, Miss Margaret Overly. The chairman of volunteer

Four Narrowly Escape Death When Auto Hits Moving Freight Train

Charles Blythe the Most Seriously Injured of
Quartette In Automobile Driven by Charles
Waple; Willard Barrett Among the Injured

FRANCIS ETZWEILER WAS A LUCKY BOY

Four well known local young men had narrow escapes from instant death about 11:20 last night when the Marmon car in which they were riding crashed head on into a New York Central freight train at the grade crossing on the Clearfield-Philipsburg road at the Clearfield Creek bridge beyond the County Home.

The men are Charles Waple owner of the car, employed by the N. Y. C. as a machinist; Charles Blythe, electrician, employed by the Electric Supply Company; Willard Barrett, jeweler, with J. C. Snyder and Francis Etzweiler, clerk at Mirkins. The latter three were out on a pleasure ride with Waple. They had been up to Curwensville earlier in the evening and decided to take a spin out the Woodland road before going home. Crossing the Pennsy tracks beyond Leonard they bowled along down the hill at a pretty rapid pace toward the New York Central crossing. The lights on the car were not working very well and Waple, who was driving never saw that a long freight train was passing until he was within twenty-five feet of the tracks. The train was coming toward Clearfield and the automobile hit it head on about thirty-five cars back of the engine. From the appearance of the wreck it looks as though Waple attempted to turn off to the right parallel with the track but the ditch was too deep and the car was crumpled back on against the curb and bank and completely wrecked.

The train was in charge of Conductor E. T. Hastings and Engineer J. L. Davis both of Jersey Shore. The engine having passed before the car approached nothing was known of the wreck until a brakeman in the caboose noted the badly smashed up car alongside the track. When the collision occurred one of the front wheels of the automobile was thrown under the wheels of a flat car and the flat was thrown off the track. The car bounced along over the ties for fifty car lengths and then succeeded in pulling the rear trucks from under the car ahead of it. This broke the air hose which set the emergency brakes and pulled a draw head off the engine. The train stopped instantly and the train crew ran back to the crossing and assisted in taking the four men out of the wrecked car. Etzweiler was found to be unhurt, beyond a few minor bruises and scratches, but the other three men were picked up unconscious.

Two of them were placed in the car of Foster Summers, of Third Ward, who happened along while the other two were put in another car and all taken to the Clearfield Hospital where Drs. Waterworth, Stewart and Wilson gave them prompt medical attention.

It was feared that Blythe, Waple and Barrett were fatally injured, as all three remained unconscious for several hours after being taken to the hospital. Word from that institution at noon today is to the effect that Barrett, whom it was feared had suffered a skull fracture, had cleared up in good shape and was not seriously hurt. Waple received a fractured arm and severe body bruises, while Blythe was the only one of the trio really seriously injured. He has a rib or two broken, had cuts about the face and head and it is feared is seriously injured internally.

Trainmaster P. M. Barrow and the wrecking crew had things cleared up and in good shape early this morning. The accident attracted a great

LOCAL MAN IS IN IT

A trio of automobile bandits pulled a real movie stunt in Clearfield last evening when they entered the South Second street branch of the Workman's Cash Grocery Company and holding up the manager, Miss Mrs. DeArmit, at the point of a gun forced her to turn over the cash she had on hand, after which they beat it down to their car, parked on Ogden avenue, and made their getaway.

The hold-up occurred about 8:30 o'clock. Miss DeArmit was preparing to close the store at 8 o'clock and was alone when two men entered the store. One fellow was small and delicate looking and wore a light cap and light cap. The other was short, stockily built and red headed. The latter fellow took a position at the end of the counter near the cash register. They asked Miss DeArmit if she knew where "Hank" lived. She informed the men she knew where "Hank" lived. They then asked her to get some cakes which were in front of the counter between the two men, but being suspicious of their actions the young woman made no move to serve them and seeing that the store manager suspected their purpose the smaller fellow drew a gun and ordered Miss DeArmit to throw up her hands and keep quiet. He then said, "Now Red, get it." The tone of the demand and the business-like look of the muzzle of the gun staring her in the face caused Miss DeArmit to comply with the command of the bandit—so far as the hands were concerned, but taking a woman's privilege she used her tongue and called for help. Her cry was heard by a Mrs. Johnston, who lives in the Walsh building above the store and she started to go into the store. As she ran up the steps to the door the bandit swung his gun in her face and told her to get out of that. There was nothing to do but get and Mrs. Johnston got.

The fellow called Red quickly emptied the contents of the cash register into his pockets and the two then ran out of the store and down Second street to Ogden avenue where a third man was waiting in a light colored sedan with the engine running. They hopped into the car which shot up Ogden avenue to South Fourth street. Turning into Fourth street as the car passed the residence of John Daly he noticed a man ducking down in the seat as though to avoid being seen. Daly says he recognized this man as Sanford or "Red" Allen, son of Mrs. Mary Allen, who resides in the Second Ward a couple of blocks from the store.

The car continued down Fourth at a very rapid rate and as it neared Cherry street Chief of Police McMullen was just going into his house for his supper. He saw the car was violating the speed limit and succeeded in getting the license number of the car as it rushed past him. By the time the chief got into the house the telephone rang and he was told of the robbery and the route taken by the robbers.

He at once made arrangements to notify the police of Phillipsburg, Tyrone and surrounding towns in every direction of the happening and accompanied by Officer Woolridge in his car started out in an attempt to route the robbers.

Being unable to get trace of the bandits, Chief McMullen called state police headquarters at Harrisburg and learned that the license number he had, which was No. 677-763, had

MRS. BEST'S CASE IS NOW IN HANDS OF TWELVE JUDGES

New Castle, Pa., June 22.—Broken, hysterical and moaning, "Oh, don't ask me any more," Mrs. Josephine Best, on trial for her life, charged with the murder of Carl H. Dufford, New Castle business man, last April 6, was led from the courtroom this afternoon following a merciless grilling by the prosecution.

The accused woman, declaring that she had shot Dufford accidentally while trying to shoot herself, had just finished re-acting for the jury her movements when the fatal bullet was fired, when she collapsed and was taken away from the court room to be revived.

In support of the defense that Mrs. Best really intended to shoot herself, not Dufford, her attorney introduced in evidence a will, written on the back of an envelope, which the woman had made a short time before she entered the Dufford furniture store, where she previously had worked as a stenographer, and shot her alleged lover dead.

New Castle, Pa., June 23.—The fate of Mrs. Josephine Best, pretty widow on trial for the shooting to death of Carl H. Dufford, local furniture dealer, will rest with a jury late today. The taking of testimony was completed at last night's session and this morning the defense opened argument, asking the jury to acquit Mrs. Best on the ground that she was insane at the time she killed her married lover. The defense was followed by special prosecutor William E. Porter, a former judge, retained by the Dufford family to convict Mrs. Best.

"Smiling" Bandit Wears Female Attire When Arraigned For Crime

Chicago, June 22.—Fred G. Thompson, female impersonator, his bobbed hair freshly styled and wearing a gown dress was arraigned in Judge Rooney's municipal court today on a charge of murdering Richard C. Lame. Thompson was held without bail.

The court room was crowded with men, women and children, striving to get a look at the prisoner, who was closely shaven, powdered and rouged. Teemer, an insurance adjuster, was shot to death during a hold up in the rear of his home.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hudson, Jr., announce the birth of a daughter on Tuesday, June 19th.

LEVIATHAN BREAKS SPEED RECORD ON ITS TRIAL TRIP; MAKES 27.4 KNOTS AS AGAINST 25, THE MAURETANIA RECORD

Aboard the Steamship Leviathan, (By Wireless), June 23.—The re-conditioned American liner Leviathan captured another speed record today. At 8:17 a. m. the Leviathan had run 25 hours at an average speed of 27.48

Farmer, 65, Shoots And Kills Wife In A Quarrel Over Money

Wilkes Barre, Pa., June 23.—Andrew V. Coleman, aged sixty-five, shot and killed his wife and then killed himself at their farm near Long Pond in the Pocono Mountains, according to reports to the state police here today.

The double tragedy is said by police to have resulted from a quarrel over money matters last night. The Colemans had just purchased the farm in the mountains.

A fifteen year old grandson was threatened by Coleman when he attempted to interfere but the boy escaped. The boy got away and notified the neighbors.

Community Service Is Much Alive; Playground Work Is Progressing

Community service is much alive in Clearfield judging from the activities on the several playgrounds. Groups of men and women, parents and friends of the kiddies for several days past have been busy resting the playground equipment awaiting necessary improvements and putting things in shape generally. All day the East Enders worked in the hot sun, one of their main efforts being to provide a wading place in the run that crosses the grounds. Readsville at the same time erected a 24 sun shelter, laid out a basketball court and made preliminary arrangements for a tennis court and ball diamond. Community service is appreciated for beyond what many persons think. When men will work in such heat as now prevails to provide a place for the youngsters to play under intelligent supervision and their women folks will provide sandwiches, lemonade and coffee to refresh them, the real results and benefits of Community Service are seen.

Ford City Physician Killed Boy, 9, Deaf, With His Automobile

Philadelphia, Pa., June 23.—Dr. A. E. Bowers of Ford City, Pa., driver of an automobile that ran over and killed John B. Pierce, aged 9, late yesterday, has been released on $1,500 bail pending a coroner's inquest.

The boy, unable to hear the warning blast of the horn because he was deaf, started to cross the street behind a trolley car, directly in the path of the doctor's car. Doctor Bowers took the boy to the Samaritan hospital, where he died.

THIRD MEMBER OF STATE COUNCIL OF EDUCATION QUILTS

Wiping out representation on Pennsylvania's governing body in educational affairs of Pittsburgh and the entire part of the commonwealth the resignation of Homer D. Williams as a member of the State Council of Education, was announced here last night, the third member of the council to quit in protest against Governor Gifford Pinchot's failure to reappoint Dr. Thomas E. Finegan as state superintendent of public instruction.

Although the third announced, Williams was the first member of the council to fire his resignation at the governor when Pinchot, in effect, ousted Dr. Finegan.

Mr. Williams, appointed to the state council by Governor William C. Sproul when the council succeeded the previous state board of education and reappointed by Governor Pinchot

ODELL HAUSER'S COLUMN

The present has been the week of readjustments and relief. The members of the General Assembly and all such persons as stood on the sidelines at Harrisburg and watched them perform have experienced the relief. It is all over and they, in the language of the ghetto, should worry. The readjustments have come to the state officials who must work under the laws they have just finished making and to the man who sold sandwiches, pop and cigars in the rotunda of the Capitol while the session was in progress. His job is now over.

The administration, naturally enough, is doing most of the worrying over readjustments. The administration always does. The legislature, just before it adjourns, always tosses a mass of legislation into the Governor's lap and goes on its way rejoicing, while he toils during the constitutional thirty day period following adjournment to round it into shape and make the final verdict of approvals or vetoes.

The general appropriations bill has in ages past been the star performer in the post-session vaudeville. A great many persons who have not been in a position to follow matters closely during the recent session, have doubtless been hypnotized by all this talk about "budget" into thinking that the time-honored appropriations buck-passing to the Governor has all been done away with and that the glad golden day of the fiscal millennium is at hand.

Not so, my good people. The present legislative session has not put into effect anything that may be called a logical budget system. The Governor, whatever the impression to the contrary may be, did not submit a budget to the Assembly. He could not. He did all he could do, which was to submit a list of proposed expenditures. The legislature accepted this estimate of expenditure with certain changes of its own, and then passed tax laws which may or may not raise the revenues necessary to paying the obligations it proposes to assume.

Therefore the same old buck lies on the gubernatorial desk, though this time there was perhaps a little more effort to do the legislative part of the task logically. It is still the Governor's responsibility to make the final decision as to the balance between expenditure and income and to whittle down the appropriations if he deems it necessary.

That cannot, of course, in any adequate sense be called a budget system. It is still hit-or-miss, with the chief accounting officer of the state saying one thing, the Assembly another, and the executive a third, and the ultimate responsibility fixed not on a system but on a single individual.

Furthermore, there is nothing in the law that provides how it shall be done under the same Governor at the next session, or by subsequent Governors and subsequent legislatures. They may return to the old system in toto or they may try an entirely new one.

It is hard to see where any advocate of real budget procedure can get much comfort out of what has happened in the legislative session of 1923. Not, at any rate, if he will look at the facts.

But the Pinchot administration's troubles of readjustment are by no means confined to the budget. There are other matters looming to windward. The one that is getting the most advertising at the moment is the project of the W. C. T. U. to raise the $250,000 fund for prohibition enforcement the Assembly refused and hand it over to the Governor.

Mr. Pinchot has a tremendously active disposition and he is heartfelt in his desire to make Pennsylvania really and actually "dry." So it can easily be understood how greatly the expectation to raise this fund by private subscription would appeal to him.

But the legality of the proceeding has been attacked. The argument of those who oppose the step, expressed as briefly as it may be compressed, is that the General Assembly is the body with the constitutional function of deciding how the people's money may be spent, and that since this body has denied the money for this purpose, there is no legal way whereby the state may use private funds for the purpose through its official machinery.

COMMERCIAL BANKING SERVICE

The most important function of the Commercial Bank is to lend money as its customers require it to develop or enlarge their business, or to maintain their credit by discounting bills.

Knowledge of the needs of business men comes from long service to the business community. Ability to lend needed funds requires large invested capital and efficient management of the bank's funds. The County National Bank has capital and surplus of over $1,300,000. Its officers and directors are business men of long and wide experience.

For more than a quarter of a century it has not refused to make a loan on account of lack of available funds.

Its officers invite conferences with business men desiring a connection with an ably managed commercial bank.

The County National Bank

OF CLEARFIELD, PA.

(The oldest bank in Clearfield County)

Capital, Surplus and Profits Over $1,300,000.

The Governor, on the other hand, seems to think it can be done and apparently proposes to try and do it if he gets the money. On Tuesday Attorney-General Woodruff gave him an official opinion that it could be done. Mr. Woodruff's principal point in support of his contention is that former Attorney-General Alter and other lawyers have been designated by this and past administrations to represent the state officially in litigation which concerned it and that they served in these official capacities without pay.

And there you are. At latest writing the W. C. T. U. is going forward in preparation to collect the fund and the Governor seems determined to use it. The matter will have to be settled in the courts eventually, of course, because persons arrested for prohibition offenses in nine cases out of ten try to get off by raising some legal technicality, and this one will be pie for them.

Nowadays nothing connected with prohibition gets a fair hearing on its merits, because the broader principles are overlooked in the passion of the dries to make everything dry and the fervor of the wets to make everything wet. But without getting into a discussion of rights and wrongs it is possible to point out that a very important principle will be decided when this matter gets into court, the principle of whether private funds may be used legally by public officials in their official acts, and that this principle is fundamental to many other matters besides prohibition enforcement.

Other readjustments are coming in connection with the administration code. This law went into effect last week and the Governor has since been busy re-appointing old commissions and boards that went out of office under its terms. As pointed out here last week, there are few people who know what is in the code. But everyone is interested in these first manifestations of its workings.

There is more than appears on the surface in the news items that have come out of Harrisburg to the effect that the constitutionality of the code will be questioned. It is a fairly safe assumption that the Republican organization chiefs are apprehensive over the sweeping powers the Act gives to the Governor and would be very much interested in providing themselves with a nice little stopper to keep in their ice-boxes until such a time as they might want to use it.

Exploration into the question has raised the issue of whether the manner of passing the bill conformed to all the technical requirements of the constitution. Both Deputy Attorney-General Schrader, who drafted it, and Speaker Goodenough, have had their attention called to allegations that the technical requirement of passing the bill on third reading was omitted. They have examined the journal of House proceedings with results unknown. It may be that this point will later be raised against the validity of the code, which will be grateful news to the army of young men just now graduating from our leading law schools.

It has been a quiet week in outside politics, most of the active politicians having withdrawn into their shells to make subterranean preparations for the county fights that will soon be on in full swing.

One of the items is the emergence of Joseph R. Grundy, leader of the manufacturing political interests of the state, who was badly hurt in an automobile accident some months ago, and only now resumes active participation in affairs. Another item was the announcement of the resignation of Marcus Aaron, President of the Board of Public Education in Pittsburgh, from the state's Council of Education in protest against the letting-out of Dr. Finegan. His rather pointed letter to the Governor contained the statement that he was resigning in order to leave himself free to fight for the principle of educational control unhampered by politics.

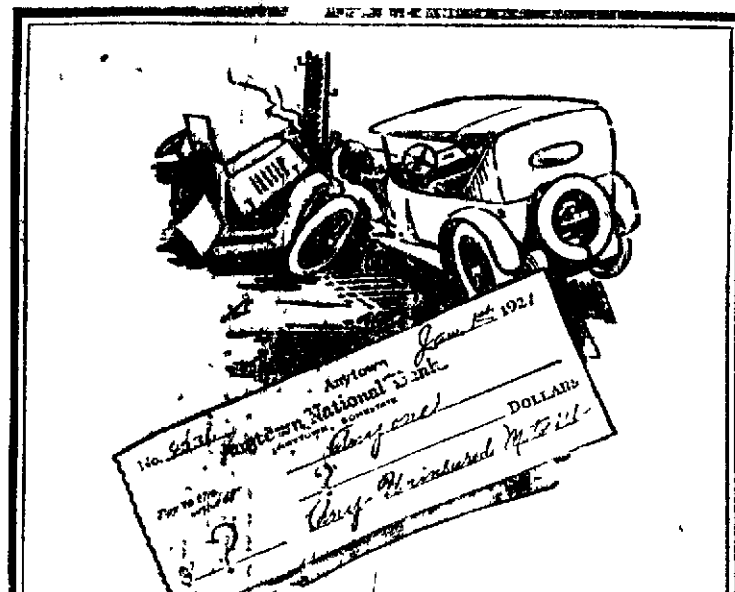

And then we had the departure of President Harding to Alaska and points east, west and south thereof. Mr. Harding has disavowed any intention of considering politics on his trip. But the very few citizens of these United States who have been let in on the secret that there is to be a Presidential election next year will expect the President to talk on topics of more direct relations to public affairs than the weather.

DOGS ARE TAXABLE BY BOROUGH SAYS ATTORNEY GENERAL

Harrisburg, June 21.—Boroughs are permitted to levy and collect a dog tax in addition to the tax imposed under the act of 1921, according to an opinion today from the Department of Justice to Dr. T. E. Munce, state veterinarian.

The borough tax is independent of the state tax and comes under police powers, which was not interfered with by the state dog tax act, the opinion said.

Branding of mine cars in bituminous coal mines and enforcement of other provisions of the act requiring uniform capacity is required, the Attorney General in a opinion today advised Chief of Mines Walsh.

Progress Editorial For Women

LET HIM ALONE

By FLORENCE DAVIES

A certain California couple have announced that after ten years they are about to go on a second honeymoon.

There is nothing particularly new about that. Many couples have done it. But this particular ten-year bride is going to make the illusion real by dropping out of the picture for several weeks first, just to give herself time to get a new trousseau and to seem a little like a stranger to her husband.

"You see," she explains, "we had just become so used to each other that we forgot the little attentions which made the first years of our married life so happy. It wasn't that we quarrelled. We were just slightly bored. There's such a thing as seeing too much of a person. When you get to that stage the only thing to do is to start all over again."

The matrimonial vacation may not be a bad idea.

Blanche Bates, who in private life is Mrs. George Creel, has a slightly different way of meeting the same situation.

Instead of taking a six weeks vacation every few years, she wards off boredom by another method.

She believes in the gentle art of leaving people alone, not out of ill temper, but out of consideration.

To this end, she has a sound proof room in their home, where the man she calls the most perfect husband in the world may go and be absolutely alone whenever he wants to.

This is one way she has found of solving the problem of "how to be happy though married," even if you are an actress married to a writer.

People, as a rule, demand too much of each other, not necessarily too much money, but too much attention and interest.

Even people who love each other can't live and be happy without a little chance to be alone, a little sense of the sanctity of the individual, a little of that right to privacy which H. G. Wells would accord every individual in his Utopian country.

Unfortunately every family can not afford a house with an extra sound proof room where the husband may be out of sight and sound of household affairs whenever he wants to invite his soul.

It took civilization a good many centuries to evolve the modern home with its separate areas for eating, living and sleeping. But after all these centuries we seem to be going back to huddled quarters again because we are so determined to move into towns where space is too precious to be squandered.

Perhaps this lack of space may prove to be one of the barriers to happy marriages.

But it isn't necessary to build a sound-proof room, to follow the example of Miss Bates, who knows that the art of letting people alone is a very restful one.

Perhaps that is too much to expect of any American family who find it hard to associate perfect mutual respect and friendliness with the right to be let alone, a combination which the English people have not found to be in the least difficult or contradictory.

Isadore Harris of the Army and Navy Sales Co., has returned from a business and pleasure trip to Pittsburgh.

fit a dam would be to back water and make swimming a sport instead of a wading proposition. The water at this swimming point is entirely too shallow for one to swim in comfortably or with any satisfaction. A 1-mu tax has been levied for Park improvement. Why not take this fund and build a dam, something that would be appreciated by both old and young, and also be the means of the youngsters learning to take care of themselves in the water, something a very small number who bathe out there can do at the present time. We imagine that the money would be well spent.

T N T crystallizes in almost white needles, and at ordinary temperatures it is quite stable. It burns with a smoky flame when ignited. In its chemical composition the molecule of trinitrotoluene consists of seven carbon atoms, five hydrogen atoms, three nitrogen

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 22.—Leaning backward under the cornice of the roof of a downtown theatre building early yesterday afternoon, to catch a sponge tossed up to him by a fellow workman, Harry Minor, 19 years old, of 508, Cedar avenue, Northside, a painter lost his balance and plunged downward three stories to the roof of the canopy at the theatre entrance.

Thousands saw the fall. A call was sent to Central police station for aid considerable difficulty being experienced in getting the injured man from the top of the canopy. After almost 15 minutes he was rescued and sent to the Allegheny General Hospital.

At the hospital it was stated that his injuries were serious. He suffered deep lacerations under both arms cuts on his legs, and probable internal injuries. He is employed by the Sun Cleaning and Painting Company of Bathoven street, and was engaged in cleaning the cornice preparatory to painting.

"WORST OVER," HARDING TELLS FARMERS IN KANSAS WHEAT BELT; EXPECTS GRADUAL IMPROVEMENT

HUTCHINSON, Kansas, June 23.—"Agriculture is through the worst depression," and "now can reasonably expect gradual improvement," declared President Harding today in one of the most important addresses of his tour, speaking before a tremendous farm audience here in the greatest wheat field of the country.

Launching fervently into his heralded "message to the farmer," the President said: "I am proud to be able to come to you today and tell you of what has been done for agriculture suffering from the concoctions of post war deflation."

The theme of Mr. Harding's address here, which was followed with the greatest attention and interest, was a comprehensive recital of the steps taken by the Congress under his administration to relieve the burden of the farmer. He announced no new agricultural measures to be recommended to the next Congress.

"Y" BUDGET CAMPAIGN OPENS MONDAY; FIFTY MEN GOING OUT TO ROUND UP THE MONEY NEEDED TO MAINTAIN Y. M. C. A.

Amount Needed Deficit
of Last Year When No
Request Was Made and
This Year's Budget.

ALL SHOULD HELP

Monday morning an army of fifty or more supporters of the Clearfield Y. M. C. A. will start out on an every man canvass of the city in an effort to raise Eighty-Five Hundred Dollars for that institution. This sum is needed to wipe out the deficit incurred during the past year and furnish the Association with the necessary funds to carry on the work this year as well as add to the general all around efficiency of the work.

The Progress believes that the full sum will be raised. It is a real need as anyone in touch with such things well knows. Such institutions, whether they operate under "Y" charter or not, are never entirely self-supporting. It is up to the citizens, working together, to furnish the funds, and the task is not a large one for a community the size of this city. Many there are who will give large sums. We know this because a large number of men have already said that their subscriptions would run into the hundreds. But there is no necessity for a few carrying the load. All should do something and we believe all will for that is characteristic of Clearfield and its people.

The budget as made out by the thirty one directors of the institution is conservative and business like. There is no effort being made to get all that the traffic will stand but rather it has been formed on a basis of real needs. The directors are a progressive lot of men, full of confidence in their city and having the interests of the youth of the city at heart to the extent that they are willing to assume big debts for their sake. The wonderful swimming pool in the building and the other improvements were put in on faith in Clearfield.

The campaign is in able hands. Big hearted "Bill" Sheeder is at the head of it and Bill never fell down on a job yet. Promptly at nine o'clock the campaign begins on Monday and solicitors will report at the "Y" at that hour. Fifty men will go out and mark our prediction—the end of the first day will see over half the amount raised.

RESTAURANT MAN IS HEAD OF ALL ROTARY CLUBS IN THE WORLD

They were without opposition as were John Bain Taylor, of London, and John Gibson of Toronto, Ont. for directors of Great Britain and Ireland, and for Canada, respectively. Everett W. Hill, Oklahoma City, Benjamin C. Brown, New Orleans, La.; A. W. Smith, Jr., Pittsburgh, Pa. ### GOOD NEWS FOR THE KIDDIES; PUBLIC PLAYGROUNDS BROUGHT INTO BEING BY COMMUNITY SERVICE OPEN UP MONDAY

Monday morning will see the opening of the playgrounds. It is the intention of all who have anything to do with the program to build it broader and better than the fine start made last season. The schedule of volunteer help is shaping up very well for it is much more comprehensive after last summer's experience to all what can be done and is needed. Every last thing will not quite be in perfect readiness but the work will go on for some time after the regular opening. Not only should the work of putting things in order come on the men who are interested but on the boys and girls who are reaping the advantage.

The various officers of the playground organization are as follows: Supervisors: First Ward, Mrs. Laura John; Second Ward, Miss Barbara Leighton; Third Ward, Miss Evelyn Smith; Fourth Ward, Miss Margaret Overly. The chairman of volunteer

Charles Blythe the Most Seriously Injured of
Quartette In Automobile Driven by Charles

FRANCIS ETZWEILER WAS A LUCKY BOY

Four well known local young men had narrow escapes from instant death about 11:20 last night when the Marmon car in which they were riding crashed head on into a New York Central freight train at the grade crossing on the Clearfield-Phillipsburg road at the Clearfield Creek bridge beyond the County Home.

The men are Charles Waple owner of the car, employed by the N. Y. C. as a machinist; Charles Blythe, electrician, employed by the Electric Supply Company; Willard Barrett, jeweler, with J. C. Snyder and Francis Etzweiler, clerk at Mirkins. The latter three were out on a pleasure ride with Waple. They had been up to Curwensville earlier in the evening and decided to take a spin out the Woodland road before going home. Crossing the Pennsy tracks beyond Leonard they bowled along down the hill at a pretty rapid pace toward the New York Central crossing. The lights on the car were not working very well and Waple, who was driving never saw that a long freight train was passing until he was within twenty-five feet of the tracks. The train was coming toward Clearfield and the automobile hit it head on about thirty-five cars back of the engine. From the appearance of the wreck it looks as though Waple attempted to turn off to the right parallel with the track but the ditch was too deep and the car was crumpled back up against the curb and bank and completely wrecked.

The train was in charge of Conductor E. T. Hastings and Engineman J. L. Davis both of Jersey Shore. The engine having passed before the car approached nothing was known of the wreck until a brakeman in the caboose noted the badly smashed up car alongside the track. When the collision occurred one of the front wheels of the automobile was thrown under the wheels of a flat car and the flat was thrown off the track. The car bounced along over the ties for fifty car lengths and then succeeded in pulling the rear trucks from under the car ahead of it. This broke the air hose which set the emergency brakes and pulled a draw head off the engine. The train stopped instantly and the train crew ran back to the crossing and assisted in taking the four men out of the wrecked car. Etzweiler was found to be unhurt, beyond a few minor bruises and scratches, but the other three men were picked up unconscious.

Two of them were placed in the car of Foster Summers, of Third Ward, who happened along while the other two were put in another car and all taken to the Clearfield Hospital where Drs. Waterworth, Stewart and Wilson gave them prompt medical attention.

It was feared that Blythe, Waple and Barrett were fatally injured, as all three remained unconscious for several hours after being taken to the hospital. Word from that institution at noon today is to the effect that Barrett, whom it was feared had suffered a skull fracture, had cleared up in good shape and was not seriously hurt. Waple received a fractured arm and severe body bruises, while Blythe was the only one of the trio really seriously injured. He has a rib or two broken, had cuts about the face and head and it is feared is seriously injured internally.

Trainmaster P. M. Barrow and the wrecking crew had things cleared up and in good shape early this morning. The accident attracted a great

Word from the Clearfield Hospital at noon today is to the effect that the victims of recent motor accidents in this section are all improving nicely.

T. D. Forsyth, of Kellytown, who was injured Friday night a week ago, is improving daily.

LOCAL MAN IS IN IT

A trio of automobile bandits pulled a real movie stunt in Clearfield last evening when they entered the South Second street branch of the Workman's Cash Grocery Company and holding up the manager, Miss Mrs. DeArmit, at the point of a gun forced her to turn over the cash she had on hand, after which they beat it down to their car, parked on Ogden avenue, and made their getaway.

The hold-up occurred about 8:30 o'clock. Miss DeArmit was preparing to close the store at 8 o'clock and was alone when two men entered the store. One fellow was small and delicate looking and wore a light suit and light cap. The other was short, stockily built and red headed. The latter fellow took a position at the end of the counter near the cash register. They asked Miss DeArmit if she knew where "Hank" lived. She informed the men she knew where "Hank" lived. They then asked her to get some cakes which were in front of the counter between the two men, but being suspicious of their actions the young woman made no move to serve them and seeing that the store manager suspected their purpose the smaller fellow drew a gun and ordered Miss DeArmit to throw up her hands and keep quiet. He then said, "Now Red, get it." The tone of the demand and the business-like look of the muzzle of the gun staring her in the face caused Miss DeArmit to comply with the command of the bandit—so far as the hands were concerned, but taking a woman's privilege she used her tongue and called for help. Her cry was heard by a Mrs. Johnston, who lives in the Walsh building above the store and she started to go into the store. As she ran up the steps to the door the bandit swung his gun in her face and told her to get out of that. There was nothing to do but get and Mrs. Johnston got.

The fellow called Red quickly emptied the contents of the cash register into his pockets and the two then ran out of the store and down Second street to Ogden avenue where a third man was waiting in a light blue Jordan sedan with the engine running. They hopped into the car which shot up Ogden avenue to South Fourth street. Turning into Fourth street as the car passed the residence of John Daly he noticed a man ducking down in the seat as though to avoid being seen. Daly says he recognized this man as Sanford or "Red" Allen, son of Mrs. Mary Allen, who resides in the Second Ward a couple of blocks from the store.

The car continued down Fourth at a very rapid rate and as it neared Cherry street Chief of Police McMullen was just going into his house for his supper. He saw the car was violating the speed limit and succeeded in getting the license number of the car as it rushed past him. By the time the chief got into the house the telephone rang and he was told of the robbery and the route taken by the robbers.

He at once made arrangements to notify the police of Phillipsburg, Tyrone and surrounding towns in every direction of the happening and accompanied by Officer Woolridge in his car started out in an attempt to roll the robbers.

Being unable to get trace of the bandits, Chief McMullen called state police headquarters at Harrisburg and learned that the license number he had, which was No. 677-763, had

MRS. BEST'S CASE IS NOW IN HANDS OF TWELVE JUDGES

New Castle, Pa., June 22.—Broken, hysterical and moaning, "Oh, don't ask me any more," Mrs. Josephine Best, on trial for her life, charged with the murder of Carl H. Dufford, New Castle business man, last April 6, was led from the courtroom this afternoon following a merciless grilling by the prosecution.

The accused woman, declaring that she had shot Dufford accidentally while trying to shoot herself, had just finished re-enacting for the jury her movements when the fatal bullet was fired, when she collapsed and was taken away from the court room to be revived.

In support of the defense that Mrs. Best really intended to shoot herself, not Dufford, her attorney introduced in evidence a will, written on the back of an envelope, which the woman had made a short time before she entered the Dufford furniture store, where she previously had worked as a stenographer, and shot her alleged lover dead.

New Castle, Pa., June 23.—The fate of Mrs. Josephine Best, pretty widow on trial for the shooting to death of Carl H. Dufford, local furniture dealer, will rest with a jury late today. The taking of testimony was completed at last night's session and this morning the defense opened argument, asking the jury to acquit Mrs. Best on the ground that she was insane at the time she killed her married lover. The defense was followed by special prosecutor William E. Porter, a former judge, retained by the Dufford family to convict Mrs. Best.

"Smiling" Bandit Wears Female Attire When Arraigned For Crime

Chicago, June 23.—Fred G. Thompson, female impersonator, his bobbed hair freshly styled and wearing a gown dress was arraigned in Judge Rooney's municipal court today on a charge of murdering Richard C. Lame Thompson was held without bail.

The court room was crowded with men, women and children, striving to get a look at the prisoner, who was closely shaven, powdered and rouged. Testimony an insurance adjuster, was shot to death during a hold up in the rear of his home.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hudson, Jr., announce the birth of a daughter on Tuesday, June 19th.

LEVIATHAN BREAKS SPEED RECORD ON ITS TRIAL TRIP; MAKES 27.4 KNOTS AS AGAINST 25, THE MAURETANIA RECORD

Aboard the Steamship Leviathan, (By Wireless), June 23.—The reconditioned American liner Leviathan captured another speed record today. At 8:17 a. m. the Leviathan had run 25 hours at an average speed of 27.48

Farmer, 65, Shoots And Kills Wife In A Quarrel Over Money

Wilkes Barre, Pa., June 23.—Andrew V. Coleman, aged sixty-five, shot and killed his wife and then killed himself at their farm near Long Pond in the Pocono Mountains, according to reports to the state police here today.

The double tragedy is said by police to have resulted from a quarrel over money matters last night. The Colemans had just purchased the farm in the mountains.

A fifteen year old grandson was threatened by Coleman when he attempted to interfere but the boy escaped. The boy got away and notified the neighbors.

Community Service Is Much Alive; Playground Work Is Progressing

Community service is much alive in Clearfield judging from the activities on the several playgrounds. Groups of men and women, parents and friends of the kiddies for several days past have been busy resting the playground equipment awaiting necessary improvements and putting things in shape generally. All day long the East Enders worked in the hot sun, one of their main efforts being to provide a wading place in the run that crosses the grounds. Reedsville at the same time erected a 24 sun shelter, laid out a basketball court and made preliminary arrangements for a tennis court and ball diamond. Community service is associated for beyond what many persons think. When men will work in such heat as now prevails to provide a place for the youngsters to play under intelligent supervision and their women folks will provide sandwiches, lemonade and coffee to refresh them, the real results and benefits of Community Service are seen.

Ford City Physician Killed Boy, 9, Deaf, With His Automobile

Philadelphia, Pa., June 23.—Dr. A. E. Bowers of Ford City, Pa., driver of an automobile that ran over and killed John B. Pierce, aged 9, late yesterday, has been released on $1,500 bail pending a coroner's inquest.

The boy, unable to hear the warning blast of the horn because he was deaf, started to cross the street behind a trolley car, directly in the path of the doctor's car. Doctor Bowers took the boy to the Samaritan hospital, where he died.

THIRD MEMBER OF STATE COUNCIL OF EDUCATION QUILTS

Wiping out representation on Pennsylvania's governing body in educational affairs of Pittsburgh and the entire part of the commonwealth the resignation of Homer D. Williams as a member of the State Council of Education, was announced here last night, the third member of the council to quit in protest against Governor Gifford Pinchot's failure to reappoint Dr. Thomas E. Finegan as state superintendent of public instruction.

Although the third announced, Williams was the first member of the council to fire his resignation at the governor when Pinchot, in effect, ousted Dr. Finegan.

Mr. Williams, appointed to the state council by Governor William C. Sproul when the council succeeded the previous state board of education and reappointed by Governor Pinchot

KING BABY

There Are 20 Here Rolled Into One

Get out the best picture of your youngster.
Or dig up an old photo of your favorite child, now grown up. That one that was taken when it was a bouncing baby, open-mouthed and wide-eyed.
Then compare it with this picture. How does it check up?
This is a composite photo of some of the finest babies in the land—20 of them who are entered in a nationwide healthy baby contest. The picture was made by superimposing the photos on each other.
In total it's the picture of the Great American Baby, even if all the other nice babies in America aren't in it. And because they're not all in it, Dr. Harvey H. Wiley and Dr. Royal S. Copeland, New York senator, are very much worried. They are among the judges who will have to pick the winner.

CLEARFIELD COMMUNITY VACATION DAILY BIBLE STUDY

Last night the general committee adopted the enrollment form for the students and completed the work on the schedule of studies. It determined the daily morning periods and the central study. By an overwhelming vote, the life of Christ, set forth in the Gospels was made the central study. Just now the Bible Schools are studying the great characters of the Hebrew people, in their tragic periods. The members of the Committee resolved that the highest good would follow an intensive study of the life of Jesus.

On Sunday the first enrollments will be made in the churches. Miss Lacey is to be the registrar. Parents will be able tomorrow to have the names of their children turned in for classification in the several study groups. This will facilitate class grouping.

Already confusion is reported. Some parents are under the impression that the tuition is not free. This Community school will be open to the entire community, irrespective of color, creed or nationality. In other places, and it should be the same in Clearfield, children of parents who belong to the Greek Catholic, Roman Catholic, Hebrew and Protestant faiths have found both pleasure and profit in attending. There will be no charge of any kind. Not even for the supplies that are to be furnished the children.

The first session is arranged for Thursday, July 5, to continue Saturday, July 6, to 26th. The boys and girls of Clearfield will have a large chance just such as is given the children in other communities.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

A large number of the American people do not pay the attention or respect to "Old Glory" they should and only appear to take an interest in the flag in times of stress in the land or during war times. To properly educate the people generally to show greater respect to the flag at all times the recent conference called by the American Legion to draw up a code covering proper civilian usage of the flag adopted the following list of fifteen things to avoid.

1. Do not dip the flag of the United States to any person or any thing. The regimental color, state flag, organization or institutional flag, will render this honor. At sea the flag may be dipped in acknowledgement of the salute of the flag of another nation.

2. Do not display the flag of the United States with the Union down except as a signal of distress.

3. Do not place any other flag or pennant above, or to the right of the flag of the United States.

4. Do not let the flag of the United States touch the ground or train in the water.

5. Do not place any object or emblem of any kind on or above the flag of the United States.

6. Do not use the flag as drapery; use bunting.

7. Do not fasten the flag in such manner as will permit it to be easily torn.

8. Do not drape the flag over the hood, top or sides of a vehicle or of a railroad train or boat. If it is desired to display the flag on a motor car, affix the staff firmly to the chassis or clamp it to the radiator cap.

9. Do not use the flag to cover a speaker's desk or to drape over front of a platform or over chairs or benches.

10. Do not display the flag on a float in a parade except on a staff.

11. Do not use the flag as a ceiling covering.

12. Do not use the flag of the United States as a portion of a costume or of an athletic uniform. Do not embroider it upon cushions or handkerchiefs or print it on paper napkins or boxes.

13. Do not put lettering upon the flag.

14. Do not display the flag in such a manner as will permit it to be easily soiled or damaged.

A suggestion that the proper salute to the flag by a woman be the military salute employed by soldier in uniform was amended to read that her right hand should be placed over her heart in paying respect to the emblem.

This is in no sense an advertisement, because we can't refuse to tell a good story on a local business man even though we have to mention the particular brand of automobile he thinks suits his purpose. Monday last the aforesaid business man drove up to the post office in his Franklin car. Parking the car at the curb he hustled inside and got his mail. Finding a letter he was expecting (it wasn't from a lady either) the business man opened same and with his other mail in his hand started out to his car while busily engaged reading the letter. When he got to the curb he found what he thought was his Franklin and hopping in started reading the letter before turning on the gas and starting for his place of business several blocks distant. As he got out of the car he noticed several packages on the rear seat, but thinking his wife had happened along and placed the packages in the car, as he had been accustomed to do sometimes, he thought little of it.

Upon going home for lunch he carried the packages out of the car into the house and when he brought them in the wife greeted him with "What have you been buying now?" He replied "Didn't you put these in the car up at the post office?" Wife said "Not me; haven't been up town today."

The business man thereupon beat it out to the car and one glance at the license tag and he saw he had some other fellow's car. He jumped in and ran back to the post office but the Franklin was missing and after spending a couple of hours looking over local Franklins he was unable to find his own.

He decided to call the Highway Department early Tuesday morning and and out who owned the car. He was driving but when Tuesday morning arrived he was saved that trouble. Shortly after he opened his eyes a voice roared, "Hey, have you got my car?" Our friend replied, "Search me; what's your license number?" The number then given corresponded to the number on the license tag and an affirmative answer was returned.

The business man then wanted to know the name of the inquirer. "What was given and when he asked 'What are you now?' was answered, 'I am a minute when the fellow said, 'I am over here in Indiana and I have your Franklin here with me. I parked my car in front of the post office in post town yesterday and after transporting some business there returned to the place, got in what I thought was my car and got clear over here to find before I found I had the wrong car.' The inquirer at the moment who was the Clearfielder and the Indiana agreed to meet at a point midway between the two towns and make exchange of the cars and the incident closed with a good laugh at each other.

Political Paragraphs

ODELL HAUSER'S COLUMN

The present has been the week of readjustments and relief. The members of the General Assembly and all such persons as stood on the sidelines at Harrisburg and watched them perform have experienced the relief. It is all over and they, in the language of the ghetto, should worry. The readjustments have come to the state officials who must work under the laws they have just finished making and to the man who sold sandwiches, pop and cigars in the rotunda of the Capitol while the session was in progress. His job is now over.

The administration, naturally enough, is doing most of the worrying over readjustments. The administration always does. The legislature, just before it adjourns, always tosses a mass of legislation into the Governor's lap and goes on its way rejoicing, while he toils during the constitutional thirty day period following adjournment to round it into shape and make the final verdict of approvals or vetoes.

The general appropriations bill has in ages past been the star performer in the post-session vaudeville. A great many persons who have not been in a position to follow matters closely during the recent session, have doubtless been hypnotized by all this talk about "budget" into thinking that the time-honored appropriations buck-passing to the Governor has all been done away with and that the glad golden day of the fiscal millennium is at hand.

Not so, my good people. The present legislative session has not put into effect anything that may be called a logical budget system. The Governor, whatever the impression to the contrary may be, did not submit a budget to the Assembly. He could not. He did all he could do, which was to submit a list of proposed expenditures. The legislature accepted this estimate of expenditure with certain changes of its own, and then passed tax laws which may or may not raise the revenues necessary to paying the obligations it proposes to assume.

Therefore the same old buck lies on the gubernatorial desk, though this time there was perhaps a little more effort to do the legislative part of the task logically. It is still the Governor's responsibility to make the final decision as to the balance between expenditure and income and to whittle down the appropriations if he deems it necessary.

That cannot, of course, in any adequate sense be called a budget system. It is still hit-or-miss, with the chief accounting officer of the state saying one thing, the Assembly another, and the executive a third, and the ultimate responsibility fixed not on a system but on a single individual.

Furthermore, there is nothing in the law that provides how it shall be done under the same Governor at the next session, or by subsequent Governors and subsequent legislatures. They may return to the old system in toto or they may try an entirely new one.

It is hard to see where any advocate of real budget procedure can get much comfort out of what has happened in the legislative session of 1923. Not, at any rate, if he will look at the facts.

But the Pinchot administration's troubles of readjustment are by no means confined to the budget. There are other matters looming to windward. The one that is getting the most advertising at the moment is the project of the W. C. T. U. to raise the $250,000 fund for prohibition enforcement the Assembly refused and hand it over to the Governor.

Mr. Pinchot has a tremendously active disposition and he is heartfelt in his desire to make Pennsylvania really and actually "dry." So it can easily be understood how greatly the expectation to raise this fund by private subscription would appeal to him.

But the legality of the proceeding has been attacked. The argument of those who oppose the step, expressed as briefly as it may be compressed, is that the General Assembly is the body with the constitutional function of deciding how the people's money may be spent, and that since this body has denied the money for this purpose, there is no legal way whereby the state may use private funds for the purpose through its official machinery.

COMMERCIAL BANKING SERVICE

The most important function of the Commercial Bank is to lend money as its customers require it to develop or enlarge their business, or to maintain their credit by discounting bills.

Knowledge of the needs of business men comes from long service to the business community. Ability to lend needed funds requires large invested capital and efficient management of the bank's funds. The County National Bank has capital and surplus of over $1,300,000. Its officers and directors are business men of long and wide experience.

For more than a quarter of a century it has not refused to make a loan on account of lack of available funds.

Its officers invite conferences with business men desiring a connection with an ably managed commercial bank.

The County National Bank
OF CLEARFIELD, PA.

(The oldest bank in Clearfield County)

Capital, Surplus and Profits Over $1,300,000.

The Governor, on the other hand, seems to think it can be done and apparently proposes to try and do it if he gets the money. On Tuesday Attorney-General Woodruff gave him an official opinion that it could be done. Mr. Woodruff's principal point in support of his contention is that former Attorney-General Alter and other lawyers have been designated by this and past administrations to represent the state officially in litigation which concerned it and that they served in these official capacities without pay.

And there you are. At latest writing the W. C. T. U. is going forward in preparation to collect the fund and the Governor seems determined to use it. The matter will have to be settled in the courts eventually, of course, because persons arrested for prohibition offenses in nine cases out of ten try to get off by raising some legal technicality, and this one will be pie for them.

Nowadays nothing connected with prohibition gets a fair hearing on its merits, because the broader principles are overlooked in the passion of the dries to make everything dry and the fervor of the wets to make everything wet. But without getting into a discussion of rights and wrongs it is possible to point out that a very important principle will be decided when this matter gets into court, the principle of whether private funds may be used legally by public officials in their official acts, and that this principle is fundamental to many other matters besides prohibition enforcement.

Other readjustments are coming in connection with the administration code. This law went into effect last week and the Governor has since been busy re-appointing old commissions and boards that went out of office under its terms. As pointed out here last week, there are few people who know what is in the code. But everyone is interested in these first manifestations of its workings.

There is more than appears on the surface in the news items that have come out of Harrisburg to the effect that the constitutionality of the code will be questioned. It is a fairly safe assumption that the Republican organization chiefs are apprehensive over the sweeping powers the Act gives to the Governor and would be very much interested in providing themselves with a nice little stopper to keep in their ice-boxes until such a time as they might want to use it.

Exploration into the question has raised the issue of whether the manner of passing the bill conformed to all the technical requirements of the constitution. Both Deputy Attorney-General Schrader, who drafted it, and Speaker Goodnoh, have had their attention called to allegations that the technical requirement of passing the bill on third reading was omitted. They have examined the journal of House proceedings with results unknown. It may be that this point will later be raised against the validity of the code, which will be grateful news to the army of young men just now graduating from our leading law schools.

It has been a quiet week in outside politics, most of the active politicians having withdrawn into their shells to make subterranean preparations for the county fights that will soon be on in full swing.

One of the items is the emergence of Joseph R. Grundy, leader of the manufacturing political interests of the state, who was badly hurt in an automobile accident some months ago, and only now resumes active participation in affairs. Another item was the announcement of the resignation of Marcus Aaron, President of the Board of Public Education in Pittsburgh, from the state's Council of Education in protest against the letting-out of Dr. Finegan. His rather pointed letter to the Governor contained the statement that he was resigning in order to leave himself free to fight for the principle of educational control unhampered by politics.

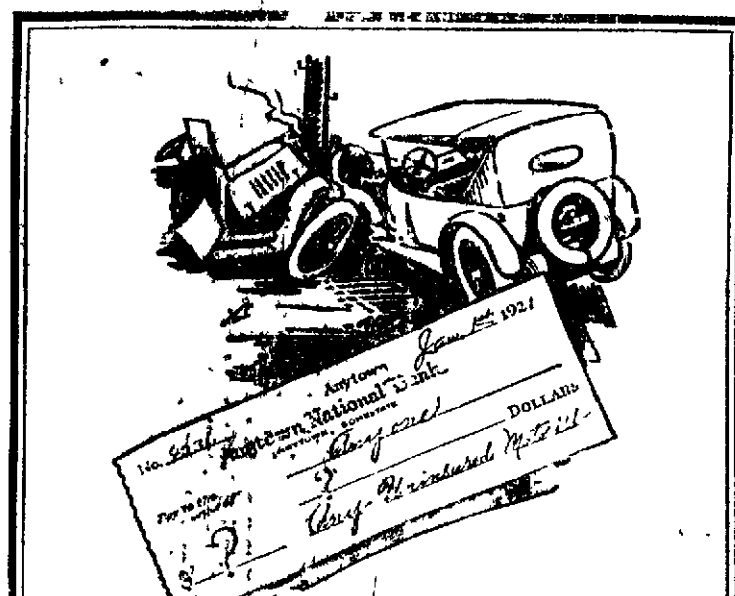

And then we had the departure of President Harding to Alaska and points east, west and south thereof. Mr. Harding has disavowed any intention of considering politics on his trip. But the very few citizens of these United States who have been let in on the secret that there is to be a Presidential election next year will expect the President to talk on topics of more direct relations to public affairs than the weather.

BRICK SIZES STANDARDIZED

Washington, June 22.—Manufacturers, consumers and builders using brick have agreed to the adoption of standard dimensions for that product, it was announced today at a meeting of commerce, and will eliminate all of the remaining 30 or 40 brick dimensions now in manufacture and use. One of the new brick sizes will be 8 by 2 1/4 by 3 1/2 inches, while the other will be 8 by 2 1/4 by 3 3/4 inches. The latter size will be used for the smooth types of face brick.

The standardization, it is believed, will simplify manufacturing practice and installation methods to a degree that will cheapen the product for consumers.

Progress Editorial For Women

LET HIM ALONE

By FLORENCE DAVIES

A certain California couple have announced that after ten years they are about to go on a second honeymoon.

There is nothing particularly new about that. Many couples have done it. But this particular ten-year bride is going to make the illusion real by dropping out of the picture for several weeks first, just to give herself time to get a new trousseau and to seem a little like a stranger to her husband.

"You see," she explains, "we had just become so used to each other that we forgot the little attentions which made the first years of our married life so happy. It wasn't that we quarrelled. We were just slightly bored. There's such a thing as seeing too much of a person. When you get to that stage the only thing to do is to start all over again."

The matrimonial vacation may not be a bad idea.

Blanche Bates, who in private life is Mrs. George Creel, has a slightly different way of meeting the same situation.

Instead of taking a six weeks vacation every few years, she wards off boredom by another method.

She believes in the gentle art of leaving people alone, not out of ill temper, but out of consideration.

To this end, she has a sound proof room in their home, where the man she calls the most perfect husband in the world may go and be absolutely alone whenever he wants to.

This is one way she has found of solving the problem of "how to be happy though married," even if you are an actress married to a writer.

People, as a rule, demand too much of each other, not necessarily too much money, but too much attention and interest.

Even people who love each other can't live and be happy without a little chance to be alone, a little sense of the sanctity of the individual, a little of that right to privacy which H. G. Wells would accord every individual in his Utopian country.

Unfortunately every family can not afford a house with an extra sound proof room where the husband may be out of sight and sound of household affairs whenever he wants to invite his soul.

It took civilization a good many centuries to evolve the modern home with its separate areas for eating, living and sleeping. But after all these centuries we seem to be going back to huddled quarters again because we are so determined to move into towns where space is too precious to be squandered.

Perhaps this lack of space may prove to be one of the barriers to happy marriages.

But it isn't necessary to build a sound-proof room, to follow the example of Miss Bates, who knows that the art of letting people alone is a very restful one.

Perhaps that is too much to expect of any American family who find it hard to associate perfect mutual respect and friendliness with the right to be let alone, a combination which the English people have not found to be in the least difficult or contradictory.

Isadore Harris of the Army and Navy Sales Co., has returned from a business and pleasure trip to Pittsburgh.

Geo. W. Zeigler Esq., of Philadelphia, transacted business in Clearfield yesterday.

UNCLE SAM IS HOST TO ARMY OF SUMMER SOLDIERS

Maniac Attacks Little Girl in Pittsburgh; A Murderous Attack

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 23.—Tearing a panel from a screen door and forcing his way into the house, John Sarana, Cleveland, recently discharged from a mad-house in Lima, O., attacked Mary Mooney, 10 years old, 218 Maple Terrace, Mt. Washington, beating her brutally before her mother could rescue her.

The mad man then turned on the mother, Mrs. Marie Mooney, and in the struggle with her bit her thumb nearly off.

Screams of the woman and her child attracted neighbors and they fought with the man more than half an hour until police arrived. Even then considerable trouble was experienced before he was subdued and lodged in a cell in the Mt. Washington police station.

Brained and bleeding from injuries suffered while he was being subdued, the man readily gave his name in the police station and admitted that he had been an inmate of an asylum in Lima, O., four years and had been released recently.

The man's first saw the child in the store of John Gustafson, 232 Maple Terrace, where she was buying a loaf of bread. He had purchased two eggs and two bottles of pop just a few minutes before and was eating one of the eggs when she came in. His appearance frightened the girl and she told Gustafson she feared the man and would remain in the store until he left.

A few minutes later, after drinking the pop, the man walked from the store. The child waited five minutes before she followed.

The ostrich has the distinction of laying the largest egg. The egg, which weighs about three pounds, is considered equal in contents to 24 hen eggs.

By JOSEPHINE VAN DE GRIFT
New York, June 23.—The open season for surplus weight is on. Thirty thousand citizens who have been taking their daily dozen in the front parlor will soon be performing their stretching and bending exercises out of doors.

They will perform them at the behest of Uncle Sam at 27 different military camps provided for the purpose and between times they will learn to "fall in" shoulder arms, eat beans and assimilate various other matters of routine army life.

It's all a part of the scheme which the War Department thought out for giving young men between the ages of 17 and 24 a summer outing and a little taste of army discipline at the same time.

If you're an insurance salesman or a shoe clerk or somebody's private secretary and think you'd enjoy a month's sleeping out in the open with a little rifle practice thrown in, just tell the War Department about it. They'll look after all expenses, feed you, drill you, play a nice musical bugle for you to get up to in the morning and guarantee to make you a better citizen in the bargain.

The camps, started in 1921, are meeting with steadily increasing poplured to his feet to find the girl facing him from the door. She was neither startled nor surprised at his presence, and when he tried to smile and to greet her in his accustomed manner, she interrupted him by saying:

"I knew you were here."
"So? Then Ma is awake again?"
Allie shook her head vaguely. "I knew you were here the minute I came in. I can't most always tell. There had been a shadow of a smile upon her lips, but it vanished; a look of growing concern crept over her face. "What's the matter? Whatever has happened, Mr. Gray?"

"Why, nothing. I was feeling tired, worn out. Indulging myself in a thoroughly enjoyable fit of the blues." His voice broke when he tried to laugh.

Allie uttered a quick, low cry, a wordless, sympathetic sound. Her dark eyes widened, grew darker; she came forward a step or two, then she halted. "What's the matter, Mr. Gray?" she asked. He blinked his discomfited, and she went on: "I know what the blues are like. I sit alone in the dark a good deal."

"You're hurt! Hurt badly!"
He looked up at her with an instinctive denial upon his lips, but realizing the futility of denial, he nodded. "Yes, Allie."
The girl drew a deep breath, her strong hands closed, harshly she said: "I could kill anybody that hurt you. I wanted to kill Buddy that time. Is it those Nelsons? Have they got you down?" There was something fierce and masterful in Allie's concern, and her inquiry carried with it even more than a promise of help; she had, in fact, flung herself into a protective attitude, she suggested nothing so much as a license roused.

"No, no! It is nothing like that. I merely fooled myself—had a dream. You wouldn't understand, my dear." Allie studied him soberly for a moment. "Oh, yes, I would. I don't understand perfectly. Nobody could understand as well as I do."
"What do you mean by that?"
"I've been hurt, too," she said, a hand upon her breast. "That's why I sit in the dark."

"My dear, child! I'm sorry. You said you were unhappy, but I thought it was merely the new life. You're young; you can forget. It's all over and over again. Sometime you must tell me all about it." The girl smiled faintly, but he nodded, positively: "Oh, it's a relief to tell somebody! I feel better already for confiding in Ma. You and your sympathy is mighty something, too. It seems almost as if I had come home." He closed his eyes and laid his head back.

Allie placed her hand upon his forehead and held it there for a moment before she moved away. It was a cool and tranquilizing touch and he wished she would hold it there for a long time, so that he could sleep, forget—

Allie Briskow went to her room, and there she studied her reflection in the mirror carefully, deliberately, before saying: "You can do it. You've got to do it, for he's hurt. When a girl is hurt like that, it makes a woman of her, but when a man's hurt it makes him a little boy. I—I guess it pays to keep on playing."

It was perhaps a half hour later that Ma Briskow heard a sound like a door being opened and she went and listened with astonishment. It was the sound of low, indignant, but joyous singing; it came from Allie's room. Allie singing again, before saying: "You can do it. You've got to do it, for he's hurt. When a girl is hurt like that, it makes a woman of her, but when a man's hurt it makes him a little boy. I—I guess it pays to keep on playing."

"Oh, Mister Fairy King!" she whispered. "These birds are his children again. You can do it. There's music in the world. Make him a dance again, an' let a queen, for you're the power an' the glory for ever an' ever. Amen!"

been issued to Sanford Allen and William Endres for a Maxwell car. Armed with this information the chief visited the Allen home and learned that Sanford or "Red" Allen was not at home. That he had left his home earlier in the afternoon and had been picked up nearby by two men in a Jordan sedan and had not been seen since.

The chief then located William Endres, who was working at No. 2 brick works, and learned from him that the car for which the license number 677-763 had been procured had burned up some weeks ago and another Maxwell had been secured and the license tag placed on it. This car Allen had taken from Endres' home on Fourteenth street Thursday evening to the Routh & Swartz garage, where the car was found, but the license tag was missing. The night man at the garage informed the police that the Maxwell bearing the missing license tag had been towed into the garage Thursday night by Allen and two strangers in an old Jordan sedan, which he thought carried Ohio license tags.

Thus far no trace of the robbers has been found after they left Fourth street and it is the belief of Chief McMullin that the license tags were taken from the Maxwell car and placed upon the Jordan for the purpose of assisting in the getaway after the robbery, and he thinks that after getting out of town the car was stopped, the Pennsylvania license tags replaced with the original Ohio licenses and the car was then able to get by the officers watching for a Pennsylvania license.

"Red" Allen, one of the suspects, is about 22 years of age. He enlisted in the U. S. Navy at the close of the world war upon attaining the age of 18 years and came home here but a few months ago at expiration of his publicly according to Nathan H. Lord, civil aide to the secretary of war for the state of New York.

Twelve thousand men, he stated, were trained for the first year, 20,000 men will be trained this year, and 30,000 men will be trained next year.

Next year he anticipates that 30,000 men will be trained in the camps.

"The men have a good time, they are well drilled in athletics and sports, they have considerable time to themselves, the recreations are well looked after and they get many valuable lectures on subjects not strictly allied with the army routine."

Men who have taken the summer training, he states, have shown marked increase of efficiency in business while large commercial concerns are now giving their men the month off to take the training as a special reward of merit.

Close observation by Mr. Daly who believes he recognized Allen in the speeding car and the alertness of the chief of police in taking the number of a fast moving car passing his residence on Fourth street furnish the only clues to the perpetrators of the crime. fit a dam would be to back water and make swimming a sport instead of a wading proposition. The water at this swimming point is entirely too shallow for one to swim in comfortably or with any satisfaction. A 1-mu tax has been levied for Park improvement. Why not take this fund and build a dam, something that would be appreciated by both old and young, and also be the means of the youngsters learning to take care of themselves in the water, something a very small number who bathe out there can do at the present time. We imagine that the money would be well spent.

Trinitrotoluene

"T N T" is an abbreviation for trinitrotoluene, a very powerful explosive used in shells, mines, hand grenades and torpedoes. It is formed from toluene by treatment of this hydrocarbon with strong nitric acid in the presence of concentrated sulphuric acid. Toluene is one of the products of the distillation of coal tar. T N T crystallizes in almost white needles, and at ordinary temperatures it is quite stable. It burns with a smoky flame when ignited. In its chemical composition the molecule of trinitrotoluene consists of seven carbon atoms, five hydrogen atoms, three nitrogen

John L. Hartzfeld of Chestnut Grove, near Grampian, was a business caller in town on Wednesday.

Mrs. Gilbert and Miss Willa Lengen of Clearfield were here on Wednesday in interest of the baby clinic and health center. They are planning to organize a health club here and are working to increase the interest in and attendance at the baby clinics.

The swimming pool is being largely patronized and enjoyed these hot days and judging from the number of youthful patrons we should soon be a nation of swimmers.

Concrete is now laid on the new improved highway as far as the Woodridge coal tippie but the work is now being delayed by the lack of reinforcing wire. It is too bad such a delay must occur, because they have been making remarkable progress.

Sunday will be a great day for Bradford people. It is the 80th anniversary of the old Bradford church and will be a great home coming for the folks far and near who were born and raised in this community. The services held at the Bradford church on these old home days are attended by hundreds of people as we presume will be the case this year.

Thousands See Fall Of Painter Through Big Theatre Canopy

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 22.—Leaning backward under the cornice of the roof of a downtown theatre building early yesterday afternoon, to catch a sponge tossed up to him by a fellow workman, Harry Minor, 19 years old, of 508, Cedar avenue, Northside, a painter lost his balance and plunged downward three stories to the roof of the canopy at the theatre entrance.

Thousands saw the fall. A call was sent to Central police station for aid considerable difficulty being experienced in getting the injured man from the top of the canopy. After almost 15 minutes he was rescued and sent to the Allegheny General Hospital.

At the hospital it was stated that his injuries were serious. He suffered deep lacerations under both arms cuts on his legs, and probable internal injuries. He is employed by the Sun Cleaning and Painting Company of Bathoven street, and was engaged in cleaning the cornice preparatory to painting.

Her Jewett Special—"a dream to drive"
Nimble—Dependable—Smooth—Complete

Away she goes—care free and confident—in her Jewett Special. She says its "a dream to drive"—so simple she "didn't have to learn how." Never has she stalled the motor nor jerked the car—so smooth the Paige-type clutch. Never has her Jewett failed to do her bidding—so certain its performance.

Up most any hill on high—thanks to Jewett's 50-horsepower motor. Around corners in traffic at 2 miles an hour—never a thought of changing gears. Out of congestion in a jiffy. From 5 to 25 miles an hour in 7 seconds in high gear. Jewett is nimble, quick on its feet, obedient—a wonderful Paige-built six, at the price of a four!

You'll never worry over your loved ones in a Jewett, because Jewett is Paige built. Paige-Timken axles front and rear. Paige-built motor. Paige-type clutch and transmission. Jewett is the only moderate size car built by a maker of finest quality cars. Thousands of families are enjoying the confidence this brings.

Women are always comfortable in the Jewett. It is heavy enough to ride smoothly over all roads—200 pounds heavier than any car of its size—cradled on extra long springs. Seat cushions are soft; body positions just right. Upholstery is hand-crushed Spanish leather, of special colors to match the car.

Men point with pride to Jewett's motor, with its high-pressure, hollow crank-shaft oiling system—like the big Paige. It sends 2 gallons of oil a minute through all main and connecting-rod bearings. Makes smooth, quiet operation; assures long life and small upkeep.

Jewett Special is complete. Nickelled spring bumpers front and rear. Nickel-plated radiator and motorometer. All nickel, barrel-type headlights and side lamps. Extra cord tire, tube, rim and cover, mounted at side. Trunk rack and trunk. Body guard rails. Automatic stop-light. Automatic windshield wiper. Rear vision mirror. Sun visor.

Jewett Special is truly—"a dream to drive." Let "her" decide after a demonstration. You'll find no equal to Jewett Special round $1200.
